BERGER SINGERMAN CONTINUES GROWTH IN TALLAHASSEE, ADDS REGULATORY ATTORNEY BROOKE LEWIS

November 8, 2021

Berger Singerman, Florida's business law firm, is pleased to announce that Brooke E. Lewis, has joined the firm as partner on the Government & Regulatory Team. Lewis will serve clients across the state from the firm's Tallahassee office.

Lewis has substantial experience in a range of administrative, appellate, and regulatory matters, including certification for new electrical generation under Florida's Electrical Power Plant Siting Act as well as approvals for other large-scale facilities and renewable energy projects.

"Brooke's decision to join our firm is a testament to Berger Singerman's collaborative culture and the depth of the talent of our team members," said Paul Steven Singerman, co-chair of Berger Singerman. "Her impressive background and experience will enhance the firm's reputation as a leading choice for administrative, appellate, and regulatory matters. Our entire team is thrilled to welcome Brooke to the firm."

Lewis has represented clients in proceedings before trial and appellate courts throughout the state and has handled a variety of administrative proceedings in the Florida Division of Administrative Hearings and other administrative agencies. She also has experience in Florida appellate proceedings with her time as a staff attorney for Justice Raoul G. Cantero, III of the Florida Supreme Court giving her experience with the appellate process.

Lewis earned her J.D., summa cum laude, from Florida State University and her B.A., summa cum laude, Creighton University.
